

Mud, glorious mud!

Just as strawberries and cream go hand in hand with Wimbledon, another annual summer event, Glastonbury, is synonymous with mud!

And, for the eighth year, Organic Energy were pleased to be able to help out with the perennial mud problem by supplying hot water from an ÖkoFEN wood pellet boiler to the showers in the Greenpeace area of the site.

The importance of these showers is shown by their appearance in Greenpeace's Top Ten Tips for surviving the Festival.

“Get an afternoon shower in the Greenpeace field – hot water, eco shower gel and tranquillity, you’ll feel much better for it – afternoons are much quieter than the early morning monster queue.”

This year the showers had an ice cave theme, but it was hot, steamy and extremely clean inside the ‘cave’ thanks to Organic Energy!

All in good time...

With temperatures rising and summer holidays in full swing, the harshness of winter can seem a million miles away. But, like it or not, it will be here before we know it, and you’ll be grateful that your ÖkoFEN boiler is there to keep your household warm, supplied with hot water, and protected from the worst of the elements.

In order to ensure your boiler is running in tip-top condition and ready to meet the challenge, it’s important that it receives its annual service in accordance with your user guide from an Organic Energy Approved supplier.

So we suggest that you call your installer in good time to schedule the service and don’t leave it until the temperatures plummet.

At the same time it would be a good idea to check your pellet stock and make sure you have enough to keep you going, especially through the festive season when some suppliers may not deliver in the week between Christmas and New Year.

If you need more information or advice about servicing or pellet delivery, give June or Anne a call on 01938 530 070.

Out and about

Spotting an Eddie Stobart lorry has taken on a cult status in the UK, with clubs, apps and even whole websites dedicated to the hobby.

Now, Organic Energy can offer you the Club OE equivalent, with the chance to spot one of our branded trailers.

Each trailer contains a working ÖkoFEN boiler which we use for demonstrating the products and technology.

Our Team OE Installers are out and about across the country, taking the trailers to summer fairs and agricultural shows. If you spot one be sure to come and say 'hello' and mention that you are a Club OE member, we'd be delighted to see you.

Introducing the Bryn Ellyd ECO guest house

Organic Energy customer, the Bryn Ellyd ECO guest house in Blaenau Ffestiniog, North Wales, has just been awarded a Gold Green Tourism Award, an honour that last year was won by none less than London's famous Savoy Hotel. Bryn Ellyd, owned by Celia and John Whitehead, is one of the leading eco-friendly B&Bs in the UK.

Nestling at the foot of the Moelwyn mountain range and alongside a lake, Bryn Ellyd is ideal for exploring Snowdonia and the rest of North Wales. Guests can enjoy steam trains, dog walks, easy rambles, climbing, fishing, industrial heritage, nature and stunning open views all within walking distance.

Speaking about Bryn Ellyd's award, Eleanor Pratt, the Green Tourism assessor, said, "The excellent use of renewable energy throughout the business is a highlight, with a new high-tech biomass boiler installed, and continued use of solar for hot water and electricity. The building itself is exceptionally well managed and well insulated. There is excellent use of homegrown and local produce, and the garden is well designed to support and encourage wildlife. In addition, John and Celia are heavily involved in spreading the green message by working with other business owners and organisations to share information and best practice."

Bryn Ellyd has also recently received the top Platinum grade in Tripadvisor's new GreenLeaders programme. John and Celia are holding two open days on Saturday 13th and Sunday 14th September and invite all Club OE members to come and look around.
